

Health & Safety Internal Auditor

This highly interactive two-day training programme focuses on the principles and techniques that are required to effectively audit health and safety systems. This course is registered with the International Register of Certificated Auditors (IRCA).

INTRODUCTION

The OHSAS 18001 specification is seen as a means to improve the overall health and safety legislative compliance and existing system arrangements. Internal auditing is one of the fundamental mechanisms for maintaining but also for developing and improving existing working practices within an organisation. This IRCA registered course focuses delegates on the most important attributes of the OHSAS 18001 management system and helps them to understand the role of the auditor in development and improvement of this system.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This course is essential for those who will undertake internal health and safety audits, or who will be required to plan, manage and implement an internal audit programme. The course does not require any past auditing or health and safety management experience.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

To enable delegates to effectively plan, perform, evaluate and report the results of internal health and safety audits and to help delegates understand the key attributes of a good health and safety management system and the role of the internal auditor in its continual improvement and development.
